

Perception of Nature

Deborah Zisko and Terry Dooley

Deborah Zisko Artist Statement:

I paint the Midwest landscapes, because it gives me a chance to explore. As an artist, I use paper, board, and canvas as supports for this exploration.

Months and seasons are beautiful with the changing color. This exhibit is my way of sharing with you what I perceive.

Terry Dooley Artist Statement:

I have spent my adult life in Central Iowa where the trees are continuously challenging me to paint. I study them wherever I am whether walking or riding in the car. I try to notice the differences both in the seasons and the species and paint them as a statement to both their place in nature and the environment. I notice how their distress helps form and shape them and their surroundings nature them. So much like ourselves and our place in the world.
